

Taft's Message Received Today

HIS FIRST OFFICIAL ANNUAL DOCUMENT READ AT NOON TODAY.

GIVEN MUCH ATTENTION

Both Houses Listen with Interest to Message Which Will Be Debated During Present Session.

Washington, D. C., Dec. 7.—The first annual message of President Taft was delivered today to congress.

Close attention was given the reading in both houses and the members evidenced great interest, especially in the President's discussion of subjects likely to cause most of the debate during the session.

To the Senate and House of Representatives: The relations of the United States with all foreign governments have continued upon the normal basis of amity and good understanding, and are very generally satisfactory.

Europe. Pursuant to the provisions of the general treaty of arbitration concluded between the United States and Great Britain, April 4, 1908, an special agreement was entered into between the two countries on January 27, 1909, for the submission of questions relating to the fisheries on the North Atlantic coast to a tribunal to be formed from members of the permanent court of arbitration at The Hague.

In accordance with the provisions of the special agreement the printed case of each government was, on October 4 last, submitted to the other and to the arbitral tribunal at The Hague, and the counter case of the United States is now in course of preparation.

The American rights under the fisheries articles of the treaty of 1913 have been a cause of difference between the United States and Great Britain for nearly two years. The interests involved are of great importance to the American fishing industry, and the final settlement of the controversy will remove a source of constant irritation and complaint.

The president tells of the sending of a commission to investigate the interests of the United States and its citizens in Liberia, the commission's report now being under examination by the department of state.

He also notes the invitation extended by the Norwegian government to take part in an international conference next year to devise means to remedy existing conditions in the Bights of Greenland, and of its acceptance under certain reservations. Mention is made of several international conferences, and then the president urges that provision be made for American participation in the world's fair at Brussels next year. The questions arising out of the Belgian annexation of the Congo Free State, he says, are in a more hopeful stage.

COVER COUNTRY WITH CHURCHES

FEDERAL COUNCIL OF PROTESTANT CHURCHES MEETS

SYSTEMATIZE CHURCH WORK

Object Of Federation Is To Carry On Church Work Under A Co-ordinated Plan.

Louisville, Ky., Dec. 7.—The executive committee of the Federal Council of the Church of Christ in America, representing fully 18,000,000 Protestant church members in all parts of the country, opened its first meeting here today. The Federation, which was founded more than a year ago, with the object of avoiding the surplus of churches of small villages and of so systematizing the work of the churches that all parts of the country be covered without overlapping and in the most economical manner, has done some good work during the past year and reports of a highly favorable and encouraging nature have been prepared for presentation to the executive committee.

The chairman of the executive committee, the Rev. Dr. William H. Roberts, the eminent Presbyterian minister of Philadelphia, expressed himself well pleased with the work accomplished during the year. A state federation has been formed in Nebraska, and city federations in Kansas City, St. Joseph and Omaha. Federations have also been formed in many smaller cities and towns. Other federations, especially those in New England, have been greatly strengthened.

Money has been pledged to support a district secretary for what the council calls the department of the interior, with headquarters in Chicago. In Philadelphia a local federation has been formed. Similarly every part of the country is to be organized, and efforts are to be made to carry on temperance, educational, missionary and other common work of all Protestant bodies, under this co-ordinated plan. The session of the executive committee will last three days and it is expected that a great deal of work will be accomplished.

STATE OIL LAW WAS UPHELD BY JUDGES

Supreme Court, While It Criticizes the Provisions, Says Law is Sound.

Madison, Wis., Dec. 7.—The state supreme court this morning upheld the constitutionality of the state oil inspection law, over which a bitter fight was waged in the last legislature, the measure narrowly missing defeat at the hands of the progressives and democrats. While upholding the validity of the law as a whole, the court does not deny that it is full of flaws and particularly cites the provision for the disbursement of money to the state inspector and deputies, which law in effect provides that he be made without any regular auditing by the secretary of state. This, the court holds, is at variance with the constitution and says that such auditing is not adequate. It was this provision which was principally objected to by opponents of the law in the legislature and now it is expected that the whole machinery of the oil inspection department will be at a standstill until the attorney general interprets the court's decision for the state treasurer. Tracy, the present oil inspector, admitted to the senatorial investigation that he had disbursed large amounts for Sonora Stephenson and the halfbreeds thus have part of his scalp.

LIQUOR ISSUE UP ONCE MORE

FOURTEEN MASSACHUSETTS CITIZENS VOTE ON QUESTION.

CONTEST A SPIRITED ONE

"Prohibs" Trying To Make As Many Cities Dry As Possible To Influence State Vote.

Boston, Mass., Dec. 7.—Keen interest has been aroused in the city elections in Massachusetts today by the active campaign of the prohibition forces of the state to make as many cities "dry" as possible. Fourteen of the leading cities of the state vote on the liquor issue today, and a week hence nearly all of the remaining cities of the state will vote on the question.

In anticipation of the city elections a spirited contest has been waged all over Massachusetts between the forces of prohibition and those who believe in the regulated saloon. The struggle between the opposing forces is, on the one hand, to increase the number of "dry places," on the other, to reduce it. This, however, is, in a measure, only incidental to the main purpose, so far as the temperance workers are concerned, for they desire, in addition to drawing the prohibition line closer about the saloons, to swell the total vote of the state in favor of prohibition. This is in their favor already by a majority of nearly 20,000, and a large no-license vote at the present elections will add to this considerably. This is desired by the prohibitionists for the moral effect it may have on the State legislature when the constitutional amendment, providing for the resubmission of the question of prohibition to the voters, gets on the legislative calendar next winter.

Not all the work has been done by the prohibitionists, however, since the advocates of license in many of the no-license cities have been making untiring efforts to swing the pendulum the other way in the present elections. This is particularly true in New Bedford, Fall River, Worcester and Lynn, and to a degree in all the other cities which went dry a year ago. In Worcester the fight has been waged for months, while in Fall River and New Bedford it began almost last December. Both of the latter swung into the no-license column at that time, while Worcester is now completing its second year of prohibition, as is also Lynn.

RELEASED A WOMAN HELD AT NEW YORK

Mrs. Mary Crandon, Stopped Because of Immigration Laws, Allowed to Proceed on Way.

Beloit, Wis., Dec. 7.—Mrs. Mary Crandon, the Rock county woman who at the age of ninety-one years has been held at Ellis Island, New York, under the United States immigration laws, will be permitted to come to Beloit. This advice her children at Beloit received today. Investigation shows that Mrs. Crandon declared to the officers at the island that she was penniless. This statement, together with her advanced age and her poor eyesight, caused her to come to Wisconsin. Today the attorneys for the family gave a bond of $500 as a guarantee that she should not become a public charge and who was released. Mrs. Crandon lived many years in Rock county, but went back to her old home in England about twenty years ago. Recently she decided to come back to Beloit again.

Later he was taken to the railroad hotel where he has his residence, and his wound dressed. It is severe enough to confine him to his bed.

MAYOR CARLE TO BORROW $10,900

TO MEET PRESSING NEEDS OF CITY ADMINISTRATION.

CHATHAM ST. HOSTILITIES

Have Been Renewed and City Dads
Have Directed Commissioner
Watson to Pull Down Spite Fence.

Matters of finance largely occupied the attention of the common council last evening. Mayor Carle was authorized to borrow $10,900 for various purposes. Of this amount the sum of $5,000 is to be used in refunding city note No. 115; $1,000 in refunding city note No. 114; $3,600 is to be placed to the credit of the fire and water fund; and $1,300 is to be placed to the credit of the general fund. The clerk was directed to draw orders on the treasurer in the following amounts: $11.77 payable from the fire and water fund as interest on city note No. 114; $103.66 payable from the general fund to County Treasurer A. M. Church, the same being the amount due Rock county as its share of the license fees received from the street railway and interurban companies for the year 1909; $35.10 payable from the general fund to J. J. Crow for his services as special police officer from Nov. 13 to Dec. 2; $200 payable from the general fund to George G. Sutherland, attorney for Mrs. Enright, in full settlement for injuries sustained in a fall on a defective sidewalk on Hickory street; $38 payable from the general fund to Jerry McCarthy in full settlement for injuries sustained in a fall on a defective walk on Pleasant street; $400 payable from Sewer Dist. No. 3 fund to Ryan & Finley in full settlement for sewer construction work in that locality; $50.75 payable from the general fund and $2.10 payable from Sewer District No. 6 fund to Ryan & Finley for sewer work in that quarter; $68.44 payable from Sewer Dist. No. 11 fund to Eul, Cochens & Nebel; $40 payable from the general fund to William Pathner and a like amount to James Hagony for services in caring for the city parks from Nov. 1 to Nov. 26; and $2 payable from the general fund to Tom Murry for several loads of fertilizer. The finance committee's report on bills was adopted.

Sewers and Streets.
The street assessment committee reports showed that the sum of $1,225.72 was due Eul, Cochens & Nebel for sewer work thus far completed on Fairfield avenue, Court and Harrison streets. At the instance of the committee on highways, Supt. W. E. Dullin's report of the stone crusher operations for the season and invoice of the property, and William Pathner's report on the work in the parks were accepted. Favorable action was also taken on the street assessment committee's report of the cost of improving North First street, from Main to Wisconsin street, and Division street, from E. Milwaukee street to Oakland avenue, there being due Contractor G. D. Cannon for said improvements the sum of $224.83, of which amount $34.33 is chargeable to the First ward fund. It developed during the recess that the Milwaukee street bridge repairs would cost in round figures $700, and that Supt. Murphy of the Janesville Street Ry. Co. had signified the intention of that institution to pay its share without delay or protest.

On Trail of Plumbers.
An order directing the street commissioner to repair all streets in the city that have plumbers installing water, sewer, and gas laterals, and charge the cost to the said plumbers occasioned considerable discussion. Ald. Brown thought it was a rather sweeping order. Ald. Buchholz was of the opinion that it was not sweeping enough. The present bad condition of the streets, he declared, was due mostly to the plumbers. They had paid no attention to the city ordinance requiring them to leave the highways in as good condition as they found them. He offered an amendment to the original order requiring the street commissioner to report the names of the plumbers responsible, in the several instances, to the city council.

Ald. Evans wanted to know if there was any time limit on the responsibility of these plumbers. Ald. Scott thought that care was taken in tamping the material replaced in the trenches was responsible for the deplorable conditions.

The measure as amended was passed.

Departmental Reports.
City Treasurer James Pathner's report for the past month was received and placed on file.

The municipal court report for November, showing that fines and penalties totaling $388 had been levied and collected, was received and accepted.

Similar action was taken with reference to the report of the board of education showing that orders for $5,286.19 had been drawn during the month.

Fire Chief Klein's quarterly report showed that there had been sixty-four alarms, the majority of them telephone or "stills," during the year and that the aggregate loss had been much less than that of last year. He asked for 750 feet of first class fire hose. The report was accepted and the request referred to the purchasing committee.

Chief of Police George M. Appleby's report chronicled 80 arrests during the month of November. The offenses were listed as follows: Violation of statutes 2; gambling 1; conducting and inhabiting resorts 11; stealing coal 3; drunkenness 63. Thirty-eight were taken to court and 42 discharged.

Mrs. Helen Perkins.

of Footville and in 1853 was married to Francis H. Smith, a brother of Charles H. Smith of this city. A son, a daughter, two brothers and four sisters are left to mourn her loss. The remains will arrive here tomorrow and services will be held here, burial to take place in the Grove cemetery.

Miscellaneous Business.

The bond and oath of John J. Comstock as constable was found in due form and accepted. Similar action was taken with reference to the fire and police commissioner's notice of its confirmation of the appointment of Simon Dorn as patrolman. Directions were given to the street commissioner to lay a brick crosswalk on West Bluff street on the east side of Madison street; to clean the dirt pines and manholes and flush all sanitary sewers, under the direction of the city engineer; and to pull down the fence which some of Ald. Dullin's Fifth ward constituents have built across South Chatham street near Western avenue. The city clerk was directed to purchase two carloads of paving brick.

Milton Avenue Sewer.
Through some misunderstanding, the highway committee, to whom the question of changing the crooked curb line on the south side of Racine street was referred at the previous meeting, had made no investigation of the feasibility of such a project and further time was granted. The question of the acceptance of the Milton avenue sewer work which was turned over to the city a year ago was brought up for discussion but no action was taken. Ald. Buchholz criticized the contractors for leaving the street in terrible shape and showing no inclination to rectify the oversight and said that there was some question in his mind as to whether the inside of the sewer was in proper condition. Ald. Clark stated that the street assessment committee, with the exception of one member, decided a month ago that the work was as well done as could be expected under the circumstances. It was his opinion that most objectionable places were chargeable to the excavations made for lateral connections. Unless conditions were much different now, he thought the contractors ought to be paid. Ald. Kimball added his testimony to that of Ald. Clark that the street looked pretty good at the time in question but stated that during the past week he had had occasion to notice some bad depressions where the sewer mains had been laid. He suggested to the aldermen of the ward that the street should be resurfaced next spring and the contractors asked to pay a part of the expense.

DECIDED ON A NEW TEACHER AT SCHOOL

Committee of Board of Education Will Appoint Assistant to Miss Coleman in Domestic Science.

At the meeting of the Board of Education at the high school last evening it was decided to add another teacher to the force at the high school. The work in the domestic science department is at present as much as Miss Coleman can attend to and with the classes in domestic art for the eighth grade girls the work is too strenuous for her, so an assistant will be appointed. The assistant will work half a day. The committee in charge of the selection of the new teachers has not yet appointed any one, but will make its choice known sometime this week.

CUPID'S AIDE A HUMAN TORCH.
Little Helen Kirtland.

Marquette, Wis.—She was just a little mite was pretty Helen Kirtland and she was the pride of the twin cities of Marquette and Menominee. At the recent society wedding of the Genet-Porter society event of the season, this little wee girl was the flower bearer. She captivated all the guests and she was loved more, well, more than the happy bride. Just the other day little Helen went up to the attic of her home to play house. Her mother was serving a mid-day luncheon and little Helen was toying with the blocks and dreaming of the day she would be a happy bride. Of course she had to have a fire in the grate of her toy house. She found the matches down stairs in the safe and she raced back to kindle her flame. Then the big fire started and before her father, L. Kirtland, a prominent attorney, could reach her she was a mass of burns and just a little while afterward she was carried away to the fairies of whom she had been dreaming.

NEARLY OVERCOME BY FUMES OF GAS

Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Lamp and Mrs. Lamp's Sister Had Close Call Last Evening.

Gas fumes leaking from a coal stove in the Fredendall home nearly caused the death of three persons last evening. The near tragedy occurred in the flat occupied by Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Lamp at about seven o'clock. Mr. and Mrs. Lamp and Mrs. Lamp's sister were seated at the table eating their evening meal. Mrs. Lamp's sister complained of not feeling well and attempted to rise from the table, but fell over in a stupor. Mrs. Lamp arose to help her, and she, too, was overcome by the gas. Mr. Lamp noticed a feeling of sickness, but realized that it was necessary to call help. Being unable to walk, he crawled on his hands and knees to the door and aroused the occupants of the flat across the hall. They saw that something serious was the matter, but did not detect the odor of the gas. Dr. and Mrs. Woods happened to be passing along the street and someone ran out and called him in. He worked over them and they are all right today, but their experience made them quite sick.

THEATRE

"In Wyoming" Coming
The new production, which comes to the Myers theatre Thursday, Dec. 9, is not a melodrama, as one might be led to suppose, but a thrilling story of Wyoming ranch life by Willard Mack, with some tremendously strong situations and a splendid western atmosphere. The hero is a voracious young Loch-livar, and his success in both life and love makes a stirring and vital play. Leon Eberhardt, who is presenting the piece, has spared no expense in assembling a cast of considerable strength, and the scenic equipment is said to be entirely adequate.

PEOPLE'S CHAMPION AND MAN HE ACCUSES

(Staff Special)
Chicago, Ill.—That Armour & Co. made $7,127,324 above taxes, expenses and interest on its bonds in one year aroused Charles Smith, head of the People's Institute and in an interview with your correspondent today, he demanded an immediate government investigation.

By reason of his position Mr. Smith speaks as one with authority. No one in the United States knows more of the conditions of the poor and the exorbitant prices demanded for the necessities of life, chief of which is meat. Despite the deluge of the Chicago kings of the packing industry, Mr. Smith lays the responsibility for raising the prices of meat beyond the reach of the laboring men and his widows and children directly at the door of the packers.

Recalling the stirring exposures of 1907 and later the present demand for a government investigation appears to be another move along the lines of the recent sugar trust investigation. From figures which Mr. Smith says are obtainable the consumer is being forced to pay daily for the excess in price over that of a year ago. This difference amounts to about seven cents on the pound. According to Mr. Smith, every man woman and child who goes to the butcher for a pound of beef contributes seven cents to the packers.

Through the People's Institute, Mr. Smith hopes to force Congress to take cognizance of the present conditions. He plans to force the government investigation before congress adjourns for the holidays if possible. In an interview with your correspondent today Mr. Smith said:

"The world's history shows that every time the price of bread has advanced above the price of the wage earner there has been a revolution. It happened in Rome, it happened in France. What may happen in this country no man can say but it is certain the prices of food stuffs are rapidly getting beyond the power of the wage earner. The man who several years ago was rich enough to have a porterhouse steak once in a while cannot have it now. He cannot afford it. How many working men in the city of Chicago will be able to pay 35 cents a pound for their Christmas turkey? It is directly up to the government to find out exactly why the prices have advanced, fix the responsibility and follow this up with wholesale prosecutions. Now is the time for action. The wage earner can not wait for the availing of a drowsy public conscience."

At the Armour and Swift plant vigorous denial made to the charges of Mr. Smith. The packers in one voice declare that the increased price is due to a shortage. At the stock yards today an investigation revealed the fact that the receipts have been larger than during the previous year and the prices lower.

In 1873 he became assistant general superintendent of the mails and in 1876 became general superintendent. He introduced the American electrical system of street railways in Buenos Ayres and installed telephone systems in the principal cities of the United States. He became president of the American Telephone and Telegraph company in 1907. He is director in scores of other corporations in New York and London.

An Early Shopping Fable

Once upon a Time there were two Who Old Ones—T'Witt and T'Woo. They watched the Old States and the Young Sports go home every Morning; they blinked at the Best Citizens who are never in bed early; they laughed at the Follies of the Money. Spokee Lovers who sat beneath their home in a Great Cedar Tree. Now T'Witt loved T'Woo, but he was Wise, Dead Wise. There were no Gus Bills for him to pay and no Chance of the Old Man getting Next by the Meter. They Wined and Cined and Fussed all Night long and then T'Witt would fly away to his home in the Hills, leaving the sorrowing T'Woo to sigh and wonder whether she was being lashed a Bunch of Soft Talk or whether the Guy had in fact been Anybody knowing at his Sly Place Anyway. He had neither Sweet Lover nor his Staff beside the Folliesman the Silken, the Butcher and a Soldier. She thought she had T'Witt sided up Right. He was a Piker after her Wad and she meant to see whether he was a Live One before becoming the Bride of a Dead Man. Like all Sensible Brimstone, she decided to suspend Judgment until after Christmas.

"If T'Witt loves Me," she said, "he will come Through. If he don't, One

THOS. NOLAN WAS DYING IN SNOW

WHEN DISCOVERED IN DOUGLAS SCHOOL YARD THIS MORNING.

BREATHED LAST AT 10 A. M.

Blackened Right Eye and Face That Watch and Bank-book Were Missing Seemed to Point to Foul Play. Thomas Nolan, former bookkeeper at the North-Western depot, was found unconscious in the yard of the Douglas school this morning about seven o'clock and died at the police station three hours later without coming to his senses. Upon investigation it was found that his bankbook and the watch which he always carried were missing, and these circumstances, coupled with the fact that he had sustained severe bruises about the face and right eye led the authorities to believe that he had been knocked down and robbed. After an examination had been made by Dr. G. G. Chittenden, District Attorney Fisher was disposed to call on an inquest this afternoon for the purpose of inquiring into the manner of the man's death, but deferred a decision regarding the matter until he could communicate with relatives and learn further particulars. At two o'clock no arrangements had been made for such an investigation.

How Nolan happened to be in the school yard is a mystery and nothing has been learned concerning his actions earlier in the evening. His body was first discovered by Daniel Bonnett, janitor of the school, who saw what he thought was a garment lying in the yard, but on looking closer ascertained that it was the body of a man, partially covered with snow. Calling James Collins to aid him, he dragged the unconscious body into the school building and telephoned to the police, who took Nolan to the city hall in the patrol wagon.

Thinking that their efforts to revive the man were fruitless, the officers called in Dr. Edson, who administered restoratives. These, however, failed to cause an improvement in his condition and about nine o'clock Dr. Cunningham was called. An examination showed that Nolan's state at this time was serious and the physician advised that his relatives be notified, and also that the dying man's body be taken home where his clothes could be removed.

About ten o'clock it was seen that Nolan was shivering rapidly and a hurry call was sent for his son, Thomas, a priest and a doctor. They were too late, however. For when Father Fitzgerald of Evansville arrived to administer extreme unction, Nolan was breathing his last. Dr. Cunningham arrived about 10:15 and pronounced life extinct.

The body was taken immediately to Ryan's morgue, where Dr. G. G. Chittenden made an examination. It was found that the dead man had been badly bruised about the right temple; that his right eye had been blackened by some sort of impact; and that there were also several scratches and abrasions that might have resulted from a fall. It is thought that the missing bankbook showed deposits in the Merchants' Savings bank to the amount of several hundred dollars.

The deceased was well known in the city. Last spring he gave up his position as baggage man and went to Seattle on a visit. While there he received the news of his wife's death on March first. Her sudden death, coupled with the lack of steady employment, is said to have sadly broken up his life and he had been living alone and rather aimlessly for some time. Although no knowledge has been obtained of his movements during the early part of the evening, it is thought that he was under the influence of liquor as he had latterly been drinking heavily. He was fifty-eight years old.

There are ten of his children still living, all of whom have been notified. They are: Mrs. H. J. Koppel and Mrs. H. L. Fagon of Seattle; Wash.; Thomas and William of this city; Robert, Frank, Edward, and the Misses Anna and Maud of Melnotte; and Walter Nolan of Fond du Lac.

Late this afternoon it was decided no inquest would be held.

Chicago, Ill.,—The Great winter baseball was in on earnest. When Earl Johnson, guiding director of the affairs of the American league, jumped into the fight with the declaration that John Montgomery Ward must not be elected president of the National league on December 15, the first skirmish began. Fans are asking what right Johnson has to mix in the affairs of the big league, but those who know Johnson know he has a right to do anything—even refuse to speak to the "Old Roman" Charles Comiskey. It's just Johnson's way and if he decides to tell Charles Murphy, owner of the Cubs, and John T. Brush where to

Mr. Kellogg as chief counsel for the government has made the battle against Standard Oil his whole work in life during the entire three years. Endowed with a marvelous capacity for work he has at times labored practically night and day on the case carrying secretaries and piles of documents with him on his trips to save time and even reducing his routine to such a point as to continue his study in his auto to and from his office. His one recreation has been 30 minutes of golf, by watch or 30 minutes on horseback when the strain has begun to tell. Night after night he has worked into the small hours while his neighbors slept with an indelible energy which shows its result in the government's victory. His enormous capacity for work and his marvelous system for economizing time, together with his executive capacity shown in the selection of his assistants and organization of their duties is held by attorney, familiar with the struggle to be the element which won the victory. Greenwood, Ind.—A real college chap, chummy, kind, bright a society favorite, an athlete here—much was said of him. Rolter students of old the Evans knew in 1896. He was not one of the "Mercy Boys," but he actually passed in classes. Today H. F. Rolter, doctor, student and allround athlete, he, challenging Frank Gotch, for his honors and hoping for a fight with winner of the Jeffries-Johnson bout. Modesty is not one of Rolter's failings, but he admits he has no right according to conceivably kind of "dope" to meet either of these men, but he maintains he has confidence in his ability to win.

The real truth about his ambition came out while visiting Phi Delta Theta fraternity brothers in his old college town not long ago. He opened up his heart of hearts and said that he was in the athletic game for two reasons—first he always loved sport of all kinds and second the publicity given his rents helped the doctoring business. He divulged a secret while until this time he had not appeared in print. He said he had accumulated enough out of doctoring and wrestling to spend two years abroad in completing his studies. In personal appearance Rolter is one of the handsomest men. He has a dignified bearing is courteous and affable at all times, talks entertainingly on any and all topics moves in the best society circles and in a word is the modern type of gentleman all the way through.

Rolter's life story is that of a lucky country boy who goes to the university to work his way. As soon as his possibilities were recognized by the college cunch he found congenial employment. He was as studious as he was active in training. He came into prominence early in his freshmen year and before the season ended was a college hero. The following year Rolter and "Babe" Williamson were instrumental in bringing the football honors of the middle west to De Pauw. Since then he has been in the public eye almost constantly. He is famous principally for his achievements on the mat.

Notes of Women.

A French book on the evolution of the Englishwoman finds the woman's club—which in England is a real club, not a body which holds monthly meetings—an excellent institution for both married and single. For the married woman it is her "own place, where her husband cannot worry her," while for the unmarried it is a place where she need never be dull and where she can properly entertain friends of both sexes.

The advertisement will suggest what to give us girls.

Her Way.

A woman is unreasonable enough to expect her husband to be as long forgetting their wedding day as she herself is, though she remembers it for the ivory satin in which she looked so stunning, and he only for the egrotous fool he felt himself to be.—Puck.

His Explanation.
 "No, I never use a typewriter."
 "Why not?" "Because my manuscript would never be sought after by collectors of rare literary efforts, if they were typewritten."

True Friendship.
True friends are never judged by one another. For that "something" between them is too sacred and treasured to be marred by judgment; for there is that abiding faith that holds them together like rings of steel.

FACES FINAL STRUGGLE.
Frank Kellogg.

(Staff Special)

Saint Paul, Minn.—After a pursuit of three years and five days, after taking evidence amounting to 10,000 printed pages and after a verbal argument occupying two and a half days, Frank H. Kellogg of Saint Paul, will have a respite from the warfare of the government against the Standard Oil company but will probably be forced to again take the battle at a later date, joining issues before the United States supreme court with the hated counsel in the United States in the final decisive struggle against the trust.

Mr. Kellogg has followed the case from its inception as chief counsel for the government, traveling thousands of miles in his searches for evidence and in attending the hearings which have been held from coast to coast. The burden of the battle has fallen upon him and the great victory in the southern decision just handed down by the circuit court of appeals in Saint Paul leaves him probably best informed man in the United States excepting John D. Archbold and John D. Rockefeller, as to what the Standard Oil is, how it operates and what its true business history amounts to.

The cost of the suit is in excess of $1,000,000. The victory in the circuit court of appeals is authoritatively stated to have the following present effect, although it will in all probability be subjected to the scrutiny of the United States supreme court.

The Standard is brought face to face with an injunction clause only once before embodied in the decisions of the United States court, prohibiting it from engaging in commerce between the states until the illegal combination is dissolved. Whether the United States supreme court sustains the decree is not held to seriously affect the present difficulties the trust must face in operating, now that this injunction has been filed. An injunction is also directed against the trust's opportunity of maintaining equivalent control of subsidiary corporations by other than present means and the relation between the trust and its members is clearly and definitely severed. If the supreme court holds with the court appeals the trust must turn back to subsidiary concerns, their properties, receiving their purchase price paid for them in return. Where the entire stock has been purchased, the stock must be returned. The language of the decree is unusually explicit with reference to subterfuges by means of which the trust might retain its hold after the liquidation of its properties and is considered a

NICARAGUAN DESPOT AND HIS HOME.
At top Zelaya's home at bottom Jose Santos Zelaya, ruler of Nicaragua.

(Staff Special)
Managua.—Here in the very heart of Mohammed's paradise, in the land of eternal sunshine and roses, despots Jose Santos Zelaya ruler of Nicaragua is striking new terror to the hearts of his people, destroying their homes, raiding their sanctuaries, and shedding the blood of the brave Indians and creoles who have revolted. Before his reported flight your correspondent was blessed with the opportunity of studying Zelaya the man.

Unlike Diaz of Mexico, Barrios of Guatemala Castro of Venezuela and other rulers of the turbulent southern kingdoms and republics, Zelaya began his career as the son of a planter. He was not a soldier, not a political trickster and not despotic. His youth was spent in riding over the great plantation of his father and in drinking at a perpetual fountain of education. He gathered about him a number of reckless young men of his age and began to discuss the fortune his father was bestowing on him annually. He had all the taste of the full blooded Spaniard and delighted in rambling to the window of his ladies fair and twanging the light guitar until they tossed him the coveted roses. He finally tired of the life ease and contentment and a new ambition began to glow in his eyes. It was this ambition that brought on the bloody scenes of the past few weeks and robbed him of happiness and his father's great estate.

Nicaragua at this time was a happy nation, although ruled with a firm hand by President Chamorro, who retained his hold on the state since the defeat of the American filibuster Walker, who with 50 fellow conspirators had fought his way to the presidency. Zelaya became an anarchist. At the clubs and in the homes he had been talking that the country was behind the times and advocated a revolution. He grew bolder and bolder in his declarations, making a number of very public speeches denouncing the government. As a result Zelaya was exiled and his sought protection in Guatemala under the excellent tutelage of this doctor of Latin America. Zelaya received the training which made it possible for him to win his battles and become president. Enlisting in the army of Barrios, he began to study the methods of the "old man." He watched the workings of a perfect as suits their fancy. The Liberals are advocates of radical action on every question. They plunge into a war as readily as they would go to a circus. To the latter party resident Zelaya belongs.

While the states laugh at the "open house" wars of this region, untold suffering is bound to follow whether Zelaya or Estrada wins. The people are hoping for American intervention and praying for Mexico and the United States to take a hand in the controversy and settle it for all time to come. The country is not unlike Italy during the middle ages. There are too many people willing to fiddle while Rome burns. Between Zelaya and Estrada there is little to choose. The former has but one admirable quality—he is a courageous, educated gentleman on the exterior, and a despot at heart. The latter has little to recommend him save his courage.

A COURSE IN THE JANESVILLE BUSINESS COLLEGE

It takes a number of years and an infinite amount of patience and care to raise a boy or girl to the point where he or she will be useful to themselves and a benefit to the community. The average parent cannot expect to leave wealth enough to provide a life income for his children when he is gone, and it is fortunate for the young folks that this is the case.

But it is possible, and it is the duty of every parent to provide his children with an education that will make them independent and enable them to look forward to a life of usefulness and honor.

There was never a time when business offered broader, fuller opportunities than today. The bright boy or girl who can begin his commercial career a trained stenographer or bookkeeper is remarkably fortunate.

OUR SUCCESS

The fall term just closing has been one of unqualified success, both from the view-point of the management and the student. The enrollment for the term ending was thirty students—a remarkable record for a new school in a city of the population of Janesville. Our initial success was achieved by the force of sheer merit, by the strong personality of our teachers and the unquestionable ability of our management to place the students in good positions as soon as they are fitted to fill them.

We feel that we owe much of our success to the records made by graduates of our other institutions, who are filling some of the best positions in the city in a satisfactory and consistent manner.

We have supplied a number of office workers to such firms as the Hough Shade Corporation, the Lewis Knitting Co., the Caloric Co., the Janesville Machine Co., and the Gazette Printing Co.

New Term, in the New School, Starts January 3

It will be well to remember that while all the equipment of our School is new and complete in every detail, the strongest feature is our Faculty.

It is composed of high-salaried men who have gained valuable experience in teaching in the largest and best schools in the country, and who have been connected with some of the largest firms in a business way.

The Evening Chit-Chat

By RUTH CAMERON

I WISH that in every home in the land could be hung a largesized copy of that famous French motto:

"Honi soit qui mal y pense."
"Evil to him who evil thinks."

For I think that to thoroughly absorb its spirit would do a good many people as much good as almost any present they could learn.

A few days ago Miss Isadora Duncan, the great dancer, appeared in St. Louis.

Miss Duncan is trying to bring back the art of dancing to the dignity she thinks it deserves; to the same dignity as sculpture or music for instance.

She puts it this way—

"The dancer of the future will be one whose body and soul have grown so harmoniously together that the natural language of the soul will have become the movement of the body."

"To express what is the most moral, healthful and beautiful in art—this is the mission of the dancer, and to this I dedicate my life."

Do those sound like the words of an immoral woman?

Does the fact that many of the most cultured people in the land attend and applaud her performances, sound as if she were an immoral woman?

And yet a few people in St. Louis got together and tried to stigmatize her as such. They adopted resolutions to the effect that her performance was the grossest violation of the proprieties of life and they hoped it would never be repeated in their fair city.

I am willing to admit that it does take strength of mind for some people to see a thing of that sort and entirely ignore the sex side of it.

But I don't think it takes so much but that almost anyone could cultivate it if he really tries.

Perhaps Miss Duncan's detractors would tell me that the average person will not go up to that point of view for some time yet, but, personally I should hate to think that.

In a little village in Long Island not long ago some women got together and tried to have the photographs of certain famous pieces of sculpture, such as the Discus Thrower and the Apollo Belvedere, removed from the public library. They said these would tempt the minds of the boys and girls.

And—all honor to him—a Presbyterian clergyman protested.

His protest, quoted by a New York paper, expresses my views so well that I also am going to quote it.

"Let a boy and girl go into that library together and see the Discus Thrower or the Apollo Belvedere," said the clergyman, "and they see something that is beautiful and inspiring. They see nothing to make the sweetest, most innocent girl in the world blush, nothing to arouse in the mind of the boy a thought of evil."

"But along comes the busybody shrieking nastiness and calling it purity. She points to the fig leaf, which is to her the principal thing in the picture, and she whispers to the boy and girl:

"The boy and girl are tainted then, not by the picture but by the busybody, and they do blush."

"But has been put in the place of culture, and the attack on the true natural decency of those children may put their minds on a lower level for life."

One man may see a beautiful picture and find nothing but beauty in it. Another looks at the same picture and thinks evil thoughts.

And the evil may not come from the picture.

Before anyone criticises any picture or performance or book or anything that is striving to be a work of art, it seems to me he would do well to make very, very sure that the evil is not in his own eyes.

"Honi soit qui mal y pense."

Ruth Cameron

HINTS FOR THE HOME

Rest Cure.—There is a story in one of the magazines of a young girl who had undertaken too heavy work in her final year at school and, as a result, was threatened with nervous prostration. The doctor ordered a rest in a sanatorium. There was no organic trouble. She merely needed a complete rest. The girl was, of course, not willing to give up when so near the goal of her ardent desires, so the mother took the matter in hand. On Friday evening when the girl came from school who was put to bed to stay till Monday morning. She was not allowed to read or study, or visit with friends, but kept quiet. Simple, carefully selected and prepared meals were served her, and she was left to sleep or rest. At first there was a little restlessness, but soon the weary girl slept. On Monday she arose feeling refreshed and ready for work. Then on Friday the same treatment was given but after that it was necessary only at wide intervals, and she came through the year in as good condition as any of her mates. It was a simple, rational, possible treatment for a frail, nervous girl. It would be beneficial to some of the overworked mothers as well. The working girl who has the strength of mind to conserve her strength by a similar treatment on Sunday during the busy holiday season will find herself not such a nervous wreck at the end of the year. In fact we all overwork, no matter whether at study or play, and a little relaxation would be beneficial to most of us. Why not try the home rest cure?

Another Secret.

HOME-MADE GIFTS
DONE IN BRASS

The newest material for making Christmas gifts is brass. For so many years all brass work has been done by skilled craftsmen, but the general arts and crafts movement has brought a slight knowledge within the reach of all. The art dealers, quick to see an opportunity, have put small, but complete sets of tools and materials for simple work on the market. It is not to be understood that the beautiful brasses of Benares can be encompassed by the amateur with the help of a few simple instructions, but simple and very beautiful articles can be made by even very young children. The pierced brass is the simplest form and the one most in use. Sets comprising all the materials, tools and instructions for a candle or lamp shade can be bought for as low as $1.50, after which the worker can buy sheet brass at from twenty cents per foot for the twelve-inch and twenty-five cents for the fourteen inch, while the original fifty-pound rolls come at forty-five cents a pound. The glass head fringe in all colors and gold comes at seventy-five cents a yard. It is more expensive than embroidery, but takes less time, lasts longer and gifts made from brass have the charm of novelty.

Candle Shade.
To make a six-sided candle shade take your 11x7 sheet of brass to the drawing board with thumb tacks. Place the carefully drawn design over the brass and fasten securely so that it will not slip and destroy the outline. Then with the sharp steel sickle outline the design, making very fine holes. After this manner remove the drawing and proceed to stipple in the background with the tiny holes. After the background is filled in the leaves and flowers and higher parts of the design can be molded with the veining tool, carefully avoiding too deep lines or abrupt endings. After the work is done cut the edges of the shade with a pair of sheet metal cutters, bend along the dividing lines and fasten the shade into shape with the phished fasteners. The lower edge may be finished with either the bend fringe, brass chain fringe or left as it is. The shade may be finished with either a bright polish or with an antique lacquer that comes at about seventy-five cents an ounce.

Pen Tray.
This will require a sheet of the 12-inch brass by six inches. The sides and ends measure 1 1/2 inches and the tray at the bottom is two inches. It flares rather widely at the top and makes a handsome addition to the library desk or writing table. The design in this instance should be placed with very fine holes and the main part of the tray kept plain. The outline of the edges should be very carefully and regularly done or the work will look cheap. Any embroidery design, stamped or outline work that will work well may be used. The simple broad effects should be chosen for first work, and later, as one grows familiar with the tools, the smaller and finer work will come easy. At some future time the etching method, which is simple and effective, will be explained. Sheet copper may be worked in the same patterns as brass and by the same methods.

The brass may be used for an infinite number of articles. Book racks, letter racks, card racks, candlestick holders, blotter corners, all may be made as well as the more ambitious lamp shades, jardiniere and fern dishes.

Chicago, Ill.—Miss May Morris of London, daughter of William Morris, an advocate of dress reform, would not only change the prevailing styles for reasons of comfort and health but also would have women dress according to their temperament and moods. For instance, she wears gowns of sober colors when she is sad and quiet and of brilliant red and gold when gay.

Miss Morris delivered an illustrated lecture on "Pageantry and the Marquis" at a reception given by Mrs. James Adams, 222 Home avenue, Oak Park, at the Washington opera house. After the lecture she expressed her views on dress reform and informally discussed Chicago, whose big buildings she said, composed the background for the wonderful electrical display which makes this city the marvel of the world.

"I dress according to my emotions," said Miss Morris. "If I am sad I do not put on bright colors, those I reserve for my happy days. I have been told that blue is my color, but I do not wear it when in my gayest mood. Then I want red—vivid red and gold."

"I love the light the beautiful, glowing lights of the Chicago nights," said Miss Morris. "Chicago does not appeal to me in the gray daytime. It is at night when the city is at its best, with the wonderful bright lights everywhere shining out against the great buildings which loom up gray and cold in the gloom."

CHAPTER VII.

The Joy of Freedom.

One night at dinner she had fled from him. He had been drinking more heavily than usual and was in an ugly mood. His handsome face was flushed, a savage frown overspread his brow. He had risen during the meal and with a coarse endearment had attempted to lay hands upon her—at last! She had broken away and darted into the nearest cabin, which happened to be his own. She had closed the door and turned the key against him before he realized what she was about. She stood within the little room, panting, enraged, fearful, yet ready to defend her all and almost glad the crisis had arrived. She could hear his drunken laugh outside the door.

"Why, you little fool!" he cried, "do you think I can't break that lock down in a moment? The ship's mine, every man on it's mine. I pay 'em. They do my bidding. I have you where I want you and I can have you when I please, now—or later."

Was it true? Could she appeal to the men? But what could she say? Although the world knew there was no binding tie between them, to the officers and men of the yacht she was his wife. They would not interfere. And if she declared the truth, she would put herself beyond the pale of their sympathies. Being merely stupid men, with conventional ideas about propriety, in that event they would be less apt to interfere than ever. It was true she could do nothing. She sank down on a hassock, clenching her hands.

As she sat, her eyes fell on a chest of drawers screwed against the bulkhead. The top contained various toilet articles of silver. Among them was a picture, the picture of a woman. It was not her picture. Moved by what impulse she did not stop to analyze, she rose and picked it up. The face she looked at was ineffably vulgar and common. Across the bottom was written in a scrawny unformed hand, "Your devoted wife." There was a date several years before that hour. Your devoted wife! She had been in that stateroom before; she had never seen that picture. He had only brought it out since the rupture between them.

And so while entering into this relationship with her, in compliance with principles and ideas which she at least regarded as sacred and holy, he had not been a free man! There was another woman to whom he had been bound. Oh, not by the marriage tie that she disdained, but by the honor which was supposed to exist among thieves and which certainly should exist among philosophers. And such a woman! A cold fury filled her mind as she looked at the picture. The last completing touch had been given. To contempt and pity for him was added hatred. The combination transformed her. Instead of avoiding, she would seek him.

He was still in the cabin. She could hear him muttering thickly to himself. Impulsively she stepped to the door, turned the key in the lock, threw it open and entered the brilliantly lighted luxurious cabin. He had dismissed the attendants some time since with orders not to reappear unless he summoned them, and they were alone. There was no likelihood of any interruption whatsoever. The man, who was leaning back in his chair, bent forward when she opened the door. He laughed viciously. If she had reflected, she would have marveled at the change that a few weeks had wrought in one whom she had hitherto deemed worthy of her affection, but she had eyes and thought for nothing except the business in hand.

"As you've come out, have you?" he

Do You Get Up

With a Lame Back?

Kidney Trouble Makes You Miserable.

Almost everyone knows of Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, the great kidney, liver and bladder remedy, because of its remarkable health restoring properties. Swamp-Root fulfills almost every wish in overcoming rheumatism, pain in the back, kidneys, liver, bladder and every part of the urinary passage. It corrects inability to hold water and scalding pain in passing it, or bad effects following use of liquor, wine or beer, and overcomes that unpleasant necessity of being compelled to go often through the day, and to get up many times during the night.

Swamp-Root is not recommended for everything but if you have kidney, liver or bladder trouble, it will be found just the remedy you need. It has been thoroughly tested in private practice, and has proved so successful that a special advertisement has been made by which all readers of this paper, who have not already tried it, may have a sample bottle sent free by mail, also a book telling more about Swamp-Root, and how to find out if you have kidney or bladder trouble. When writing mention reading this generous offer in this paper and send your address to Dr. Kilmer & Co., 233 West 14th Street, Binghamton, N.Y. The regular fifty-cent and one-dollar size bottles are sold by all druggists. Don't make any mistake but remember the name, Swamp-Root, Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, and the address, Binghamton, N.Y., on every bottle.

stammered triumphantly. "Come of your own free will! You've found out, have you, that I am master and you are coming to heel?"

He whistled to her derisively, wild-tied as if to a dog!

"Who is this?" asked the woman in a voice carefully suppressed, yet which shook with wrath.

She held the photograph in its heavy silver frame up before him. "That's my wife," he said equably, with no surprise or consternation. "We haven't lived together for some years," he went on with drunken good nature, "or I'd take you back to San Francisco and introduce you to her."

"Your wife!" exclaimed the woman in that same low, tense voice. "Then what am I?"

"My mistress," said the man, bluntly, throwing the last shred of concealment and decency to the winds, "and a damned obstreperous one at that," he went on.

Now, the woman believed in no Providence, but a trick got from her ancestry wrung the words from her lips.

"My God! My God!" she whispered. "You haven't any," sneered the man. "You told me so yourself." He laughed. "And I believed you. I would have believed anything to get you."

Well, there was no God the woman realized, but she would be her own god. Her body shrank together a little, her hands clenched. The fall was uppermost. She could have sprung upon him, but she waited, waited for she knew not what.

"Whom the gods destroy," ran the ancient phrase, "they first make mad." He rushed to his doom with blind folly.

"You needn't be jealous of her, my dear," he mumbled on. "I used to think I loved her and we were married, damned foolishness, as you might say. She can't hold a candle to you, if you are a little touched," he tapped his forehead impudently—"in the upper story."

And this man, this degraded thing, regarded her as a mad woman. There might be no God, but there was a devil and he stood before her. There might be no heaven, but there was a hell and she was in it.

"On second thoughts," he rambled on, "I couldn't introduce you to her. You aren't respectable and she is."

He stopped and poured himself another drink.

"Respectable!" he laughed. "To hell with respectability. We know a better thing than that! 'Soul to soul, heart to heart, the union of equals without the trammels of conventional bonds for weaker beings.' Yes, that's what you said!"

And she recognized with horror that he was quoting her own words.

"But it doesn't go, your see. It's all very well in theory, but it doesn't work out in practice. The world's got some ideas of its own. It's been holding 'em for a good many thousands of years and you can't change 'em. You belong to me now. To hell with your equality! You are nothing more nor less than my property, and mark you," he roared out a trembling finger and shook it at her, "your salvation is with me. If I cast you off, you go into the gutter."

She wondered vaguely how much more of this she could stand and live. "But don't be afraid," he went on with a drunken attempt at reassurance, "you are too fine and too handsome, even if you are cracked, for that—yet, I'm glad to see you've come to your senses."

He rose heavily as he spoke and felt his way around the table hand over hand. He approached her. She let him do it. She shrank a little closer together, every muscle tense for action. She was a human tigress and her philosophy was gone. He was too drunk to see it, too incapacitated to take warning.

"That's right," he continued as he lurched nearer to her. "Stay right there. I'm coming to you as fast as I can and when I get close to you, we'll kiss, and—"

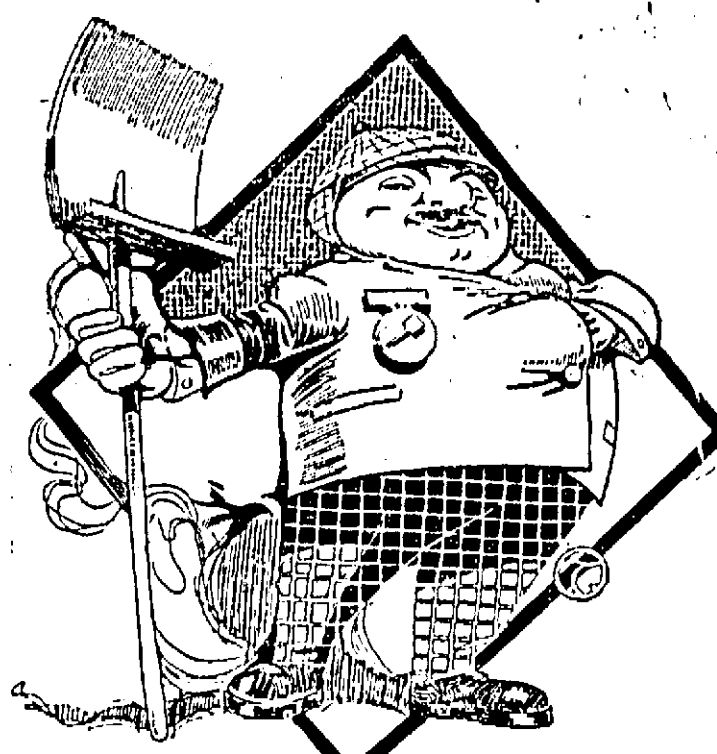

He was by her side now. He straightened himself up with a spasmodic effort, released his hold on the table and stretched out his arms toward her. And then she sprang at him. How she did it, she could never tell, but in some way her outstretched arms, grasping for his throat, struck him in the breast. Unsteadily on his feet, he went down as if he had been shot. Such was the violence of his fall that the momentum carried her with him. She fell upon him with all her force. His head went back and struck the deck with a frightful crash. She herself was almost stunned by the violence of her own fall, although this body broke it.

Cit. Population.

In 1780 only one-thirtieth of the people of the United States lived in cities of 8,000 inhabitants and over; in 1800, one-twenty-fifth; in 1820, one-tenth; in 1840, one-twelfth; in 1860, one-eighth; in 1880, one-sixth; in 1890, one-fifth; in 1900, one-fourth. It is safe to say that today more than one-third of the people of the nation live in cities and towns, with the tendency steadily growing.

New Embroidery Patterns.

One of the newest patterns in embroidery shows a table cover with a hemstitched border on two sides. The hems were ten inches deep. In the center threads were drawn to outline eight blocks, four on each side, with edges touching the hems. This brings the blocks in the center of the table. All blocks are embroidered in a different floral pattern, making it something original, and at the same time attractive.

Why We Can Guarantee OCCIDENT FLOUR

INQUIRE the price of Occident Flour. You will find it costs a few cents more per sack than ordinary flour.

That really means little to you if you are satisfied—as you are sure to be with Occident.

But it means everything to the millers. This little difference in price is what enables them to lift the standard of Occident Flour out of the ordinary to "highest grade in the world"—from wheat to package.

It enables them to buy only the finest wheat—direct from farmers.

To maintain great elevators in the wheat belt of North Dakota, where they cure and age their own wheat.

To maintain laboratories where every day's run of wheat and flour is rigidly tested—where they prove absolutely that Occident Flour is the best in the world—for food values, cleanliness and baking qualities.

To buy better sacks to protect Occident Flour in shipping and handling. ($25,000 more are spent every year for the fine, firm Occident sacks, than would be spent for the ordinary kind.)

The Difference Shows In Your Baking

The first cost of Occident Flour is a few cents more—you get the results in your baking.

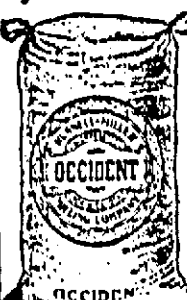

Try it—you'll say with us it is worth many times the difference. Your Money Back if Occident Is Not the Best Flour You Ever Used.

Go to your grocer and get a sack of Occident Flour. Use it for your next baking—and as many more as you please. If, then, you are not convinced that Occident Flour is the best you ever used—gives surer and better results with all your baked stuff—go back and tell your grocer. He is authorized to refund, without argument, the full purchase price of any package of Occident which you do not find satisfactory.

Isn't that the broadest guarantee, the fairest offer you ever read?

It is for you to make use of today—if you please. You cannot know too soon why and how Occident Flour is better than any other.

FORTY YEARS AGO

Janesville Daily Gazette, December 7, 1890.—Jottings.—On the occasion of the marriage of Miss H. R. Moon, the board of education passed the following resolution which was sent to the lady: Resolved, That in accepting the resignation of H. Rosella Moon, as principal of one of the departments of public instruction, in this city, the board desire to assure her of their appreciation of her faithful and uniformly successful labors in the cause of public education and to tender her their best wishes for her future happiness.

During the month of November there were issued at this Post Office 281 money orders amounting to $5,293.70. Orders paid in November, $3,605.11; excess of orders issued over paid, $1,688.65. Janesville is now the third money order office in the State, having issued to date 6300 money orders, Milwaukee and Black River Falls being the first two. Four or five hundred teams visited the city today. One man sold 17 hogs today for $191, and another man sold two live ones for $96. A spiritualist in a neighboring town had a lot of vicious hogs that sorely bothered a sick neighbor. The man who was thus annoyed finally died and the spiritualist after some days visited the widow and asked her if she would not like to have a message from her late husband. "Yes," said the indignant woman, "if he will only tell you to keep your hogs at home." The medium sloped.

The Optimist's Corner
Daily Helps to Health and Happiness
By GEORGE F. BUTLER, A. M., M. D.

To escape the evils arising from the use of alcohol, there is only one perfect course, namely, to abstain from alcohol altogether. No fear need be entertained of any physical or mental harm from such abstinence. Every good may be expected from it. True, a certain very qualified temperance, such that keeps the adult to a strict allowance of one ounce and a half of alcohol in each 24 hours may, possibly, be compatible with a healthy life; but such indulgence is unnecessary, and encourages the dangerous desire to further indulgence. A man or woman who abstains is healthy and safe. Those who indulge at all are unsafe. A man or woman who relies on alcohol for support is lost. The use of tobacco is a habit better not acquired, and when acquired is better abandoned. The young should not use tobacco. It gives a doubtful pleasure for a certain penalty. Loss of health, loss of energy, loss of vitality, loss of power, loss of strength, loss of courage, loss of confidence, loss of respect, loss of honor, loss of esteem, loss of love, loss of friendship, loss of peace, loss of joy, loss of life.

Quick to Learn Music. The talent of the negro race for music is shown by the experience of the bandmaster of a regiment of native troops in Jamaica. When he took charge not a man in the command knew a single note. Only one or two could play an instrument even a little. Yet in six months he had selected his musicians and taught them enough to appear in public. Two or three years later their fame had spread to England and they were invited there to give a series of concerts. Their tour was highly successful.

Hunter Caught in Bear Trap. While he was hunting in the "Kettle" of seven mountain, in Snyder county, recently, George S. Schoch of this place was caught in a bear trap under a clump of bushes.

He was found a prisoner after dark seven hours later asleep from fatigue by his brother, John A. S. Schoch, and Donald Spang of Lewistown, and he was extricated with difficulty. His thick hunting leggings minimized injuries that were bad at the best. Selmsgrove correspondent Philadelphia Record.

Weak? Tired? Run-down?

These conditions come from overwork, a weak stomach, overtaxed nerves or feeble blood. When you feel "all in"—hardly able to drag about, no energy, no ambition, easily exhausted and can't sleep—take and note what a difference they make in your condition. The stomach is the first to feel the good effects. Food tastes good, the digestion is strengthened, bowels and bile work regularly, the blood is cleansed, and the nerves rested. The whole system responds to the tonic action of Beecham's Pills.
